The screenshot shows the NASA website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for HOME, NEWS, MISSIONS, MULTIMEDIA, CONNECT, and ABOUT NASA. Below this is a search bar and a 'Log In To MyNASA | Sign Up' link. The main content area features a large 'Exploration' header with the subtext 'Expanding human presence into the solar system'. Below this is a 'Feature' section titled 'NASA Announces Design for New Deep Space Exploration System' dated 09.14.11. The article text states: 'NASA is ready to move forward with the development of the Space Launch System -- an advanced heavy-lift launch vehicle that will provide an entirely new national capability for human exploration beyond Earth's orbit. The Space Launch System will give the nation a safe, affordable and sustainable means of reaching beyond our current limits and opening up new discoveries from the unique vantage point of space.' Below the text is a video player showing a rocket launch. The video player has a progress bar at 00:53 of 01:09. On the left side of the page, there is a sidebar with 'Exploration' and 'Beyond Earth' categories, including links to 'International Space Station', 'Commercial Space Transportation', 'Crew Vehicle and Launch System', 'Human Health and Safety', 'Analog Missions and Field Testing', and 'Human Exploration Technology'. There are also sections for 'Multimedia', 'News & Media Resources', and 'People Who Read This Also Read...' with several article links.

RESERVE

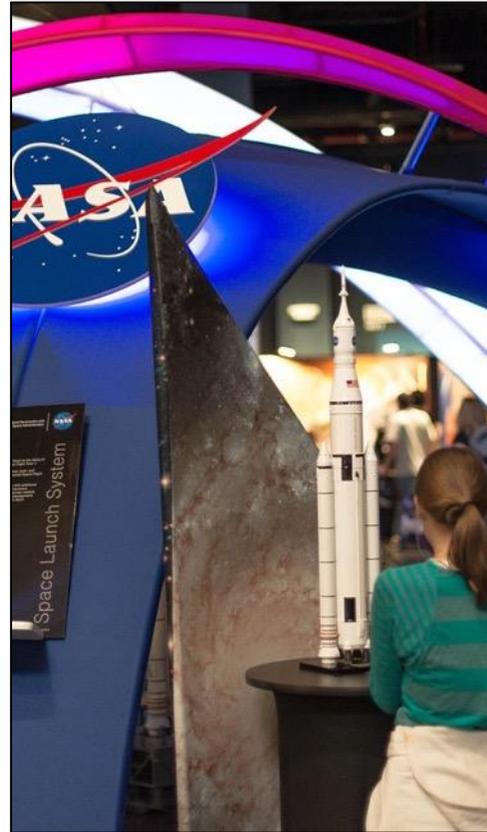

A Special Place in the Southern Appalachians

Little River is unique because it flows for most of its length atop Lookout Mountain in northeast Alabama. Forested uplands, waterfalls, canyon rims and bluffs, pools, boulders, and sandstone cliffs offer settings for a variety of recreational activities. Natural resources and cultural heritage come together to tell the story of the Preserve, a special place in the Southern Appalachians. Read More
